

52 Weeks Workspace Challenge

Week Two – Do Something Creative

Let's make something. Are you ready? Whatever it is that you do, you're going to do it. And while you're at it, you're going to pay attention to your creative process. If you're someone who does a lot of different things, you might want to do this assignment more than once. As you're working, make a list of what works and what doesn't. Maybe, you need to get up every time you need something or you can never find whatever it is that you're looking for, write it down. If you're having an especially difficult time because of the way things are arranged, add that to your list as well. We're going to use these lists to plan our creative spaces.
